

Abstract

An apparatus for determining inherent vehicle velocity is proposed, which determines the inherent vehicle velocity using the pre-crash sensor suite. The determination is performed on the basis of signals reflected from road surfaces. The 5 determination is performed only when a predefined operating state exists, such as a locked or slipping or suspended wheel.

(Figure 1)